The Queen's Birthday.

The forty-ninth anniversary of the birth, and the thirty first of the reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria will be officially celebrated in this city to-day. The occasion, like the preceding ones of her distinguished reign, is one on which all classes of her subjects can unite to offer their congratulations to their monarch and their country. The same national success, extension and improvement which the country has witnessed since the accession of Victoria is still conspicuous, and perhaps to-day freer from qualification than at any previous period. Immediately at home the liberal reforms in England, and contemplated policy towards Ireland and Scotland, are drawing the people to a closer fellowship and union, and making it the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in reality. In our BUCILLI GIAVIOLIS COSTO PROPERTING past year sone of those great freshets of crime which sometimes sweep over and leave a recollection calculated to your personal knowledge of its members, tinge our national holidays with a shade of melancholy. In our home manufactories and our foreign commerce there is a distinct and evident increase and success, while our arms have nobly vindicated, for the benefit of the world, the outraged rights and honor of civilized man by the dethronement of the Abyssinian tyrant. In the Colonies we see peace and prosperity, and a peculiar exemption from many of those great physical evils which have so seriously afflicted other people. In the domestic circle of our Queen, with the exception of the base attempt on Prince Alfred's life, we find her household free from sorrow as it is free from shame, and her children and her children's children growing up in the same habits of religion, virtue and industry which she has so uncompromisingly illustrated in her own life. Looking lastly at our own affairs, we see something too, that may give zest to our holiday enjoyments to-day. A year ago we congratulated our readers upon the enunciation of Confederation, for at that time it was little more, and to-day we can repeat that congratulation tenfold, for it has now become a great principle, approved by the Sovereign and determined upon by the people. But if its accomplishment should be delayed beyond the period we anticia pate, we have still reason to rejoice that the light of prosperity, by our own indomitable energies, is once more dawning upon us, and supplying fair and reasonable hope that the worst of our troubles are over. On this fortyninth-anniversapp,-therefore,-of- our monarch's birthday, we see no reason existing why we should not celebrate it in a manner becoming her, the country and ourselves. RABBITS AND SHEEP.—At a recent meeting of the Staindrop Farmers' Club a paper was read on the comparative appetites of sheep and rabbits. Two hogget sheep and twelve full grown rabbits had been put up and fed for six weeks on oats, cut clover, bran and roots. At the end of that time it was found that nine rabbits in captivity ate as much as two sheep, and, of course, when ore than they free, they destroy consume. Some estimate may thus be formed of the injury done to tenant far-mers by rabbits. A farm of which 900 rabbits are shot yearly is taxed far more heavily than if its tenant had to maintain a flock of 200 of his landlord's sheep-The sheep, too, would be useful in fertilising the land, while rabbits are of no use all in that capacity .- Pall Mall

THE science of reporting, which has now attained to such perfection, has a much more ancient origin than is gener. ally supposed. For what does the venerable Plutarch say? "Cicero dispersed able Platarch say? 'Cicero dispersed about the Senate House several expert writers, whom he has taught to make certain figures, and who did, in little and short strokes, equivalent to words, pen down all he said."

A New Hampspire farmer, who had an invariably good-natured wife, longed to hear her scold for a change, and was advised that a load of crotchety firewood would make her very desirably cross. He tried it. When the pile was gone, he asked if he should get such another supply. "Oh yes," said she," for that crooked wood youbrought before does lie around he pot so nicely."

THE quantity of sugar used in breweries in England increased from 9,983,340 pounds in the ending at Michaelmas, 1866, to no less than 39,217,264 in the year ending at Michaelmas 1867. The increase in Scotland was from 209,113 pounds in 1866 to 351,456 pounds in 1867; and in Ireland from 148,534 pounds to 1,415,296 pounds.

George Alfred Townsend's Interview with Andrew Johnson.

Correspondence Cleveland Leader

Washington, March 13.—You have read a good deal lately about conversations between the President and the newspaper correspondents. I have had my own little interview of this sort, and re-vive it only that you may know what sort of a figure the President makes when revealing his virtues and views to journal

I went up to the White House with a friend, and writing my name on a card, sent it to A. J. For nearly three hours waited in a lonesome ante room, and at last, when nodding in a chair, had my name called stentorianly. Then I was ushered so quickly before the President that the whole fabric of questions I had meant to ask went up like a pyramid of mist. The President was dressed in black, had his hair well brushed, and looked good for thirty years of his life. His manner was gracious, but not demonstrative. I told him I wanted to ask him some questions on certain points, and meant to publish the answers in a Republican newspaper,

"What were those questions?" said

I told him that I couldn't recollect a single one of them, being very sleepy. said, however, that they were all leading questions, requiring direct answers rather than conversational ones; for it had been said to me that if Johnson got to speechmaking he would go like a music box for four or five hours. If he had talked half an hour I should have gone to sleep in The INTERIOR CONTRACTOR CONTRACTO can be just enough to render a fair verdict in your cause ?

Answer .- "Well I you see, on this pint as its just coming up just at this time, I should have to answer it a little later, you will perceive, on this pint."

Quastion.—"Will you resist by force urr actompt to suspend you daring trial?"

Answer .- "Well! on that pint, also, as it's about just coming prominent up, you see, on that pint I shouldn't care just yet to have my views exactly, as it were, spread before the people. That and the other pint I'll come to, p'raps, at a sub-sequent time."

Here the President referred me to some old message or speech he had sent to somebody, and with a sigh I begged to be allowed to finish the interview when he had more leisure and I more patience

Johnson's conversations are merely closet stump speeches. He takes up a lead pencil, strikes the table with it, says, "There!" at every climax, bellows, cries "My God!" when at every fifth minute appealing to Heaven for the nobility of his motives, and trusts all sorts of people with the graph private of his cont. with the very privacy of his soul. One of the correspondents went to see him some time ago, and hearing him talk about three hours, returned to his office and wrote a series of questions and answers, not a twentieth of which, he says, ever passed between himself and the Pres ident. He read the manuscript to the President, who replied: "Why! you got me very faithful!" The fact is Johnson is always reported with more elegance than he speaks, and in a way to give him a better figure before the country than he makes in private. He is a dreary talker.

THE Paris Moniteur gives some curious narticulars about Paris de Foie Gras, of which 2,600,000f worth is consumed in Paris every winter. Most of these pies come from Bergerac, Agon, Perigueux, Bordeaux and Strasburg; but a few are also made in Paris.

POTATOES.—Last year 1,001,545 acres in Ireland were devoted to the growth of polatoes; in orear Britain, almost three times as large, and with more than four times the population, only 597,745 acres.

THE Grand Council of the Canton of Fribourg, in Switzerland, has re-established the penalty of death which was abolished 20 years ago.

THE height of modesty is that of a young lady who desiring the leg of a chicken at table said: "I'll take the part that ought to be dressed in drawers.'

A Canadian editor, attacked by a ruffian on a bridge, threw him into the river and made an item of him.

"THE LIFE OF THE FLESH IS IN THE BLOOD," was said by inspiration long before Harvey's discovery of its circulation had brought to light its purposes and uses. How we know not only that "life is in the blood," but that disease inhabits it also. Many of the disorders that pervade the human frame, have their home in it, thrive and grow in it. The celebrated Dr. J. C. Ayers, of Lowell, has had regard to this important fact in making a Remedy to cure these disorders. His Ex-tract of Sarsaparilla purges out the impurities of the blood and induces a healthy action in it that expels disease. This tooks reasonable, and it is true, for we know by our own experience. Seldom as we taken any medicine, we have nevertheless several times been under obligations to the skill of Dr. Ayer for the relief which his remedies never fail to afford us when we are obliged to have recourse to them .- Catholic Halifax, N II

THE RECATTA.—The first of the festivities forming a part of the celebration of the forty-ninth anniversary of Queen's Victoria's birthday took place on Saturday, and in every respect was a great success. The day, although warmer than usual, was delightful, and well-suited for the pic-nic parties which occupied the banks of our beautiful Arm, all the way from the bridge to the Gorge. It is altogether. Early in the morning the town bore a most lively appearance; flags were flying from all the principal buildings and the shipping, and by half-past 10 the streets were full of well-dressed persons wending their way to the Hudson Bay Co.'s wharf, where the Steam Launch and barges of the Zealous were placed at the disposal of the Committee by the Admiral to convey them up the Arm. The managing committee were here represented by Messrs Stuart and Franklin, whose arrangements were admirable. From the wharf to the Gorge, the Arm wore a most animated appearance. From H. M. gunboat Forward, all decked in colors, which took up ber position near the bridge, down to the meanest craft, the water was covered with boats laden with, people full of merriment and joy. From Curtis' Point, where the barges delivered their living freight the scene was really enchanting. An arch of flags spanning the water, the high banks covered with tents, the the bridge and every spot on both sides of the arm crowded with people, and the roads lined with equestrians, amongst whom were many ladies, gave the happiest effect to the whole scene. We cannot recall a single celebration which was more appreciated or enjoyable than our Regatta of Saturday. Much of this success, it must not be forgot ten, was attributable to the gracious manner in which Admiral Hastings co-operated with the committee to secure the comfort and convenience of the public, and without which kindness and attention, the day would have been shorn of most of its enjoyment The gratitude of all classes was universally expressed. Oning to the severe , illness of His Excellency the Governor he was prevented being present. We observed Mrs Seymout, Mis Mills, the Rumital, Sir James Douglas and family, the Chief Justice, Colonial Secretary, Officers of the Fleet, and several of the principal officials and families. A more universal assemblage was never known; clergymen of every denomination, men of all politics, people of all nations, the rich and poor, in fact mingled freely together, and forgetting the sectional and social differences that divide them, acted as becomewhose virtues are an example to the world. The racing was not so successful as last year but nevertheless was good, and under the management of Lieutenant H stings and Mr Kelly gave perfect satisfaction. The following is the list of winners. First, race not run; second, was won by the Fairy; third, by the Phantom; fourth, by the Fairy; fifth by the Flying Fish; sixth, not run; seventh by the Alert; eighth, cance race with Indians; in lieu of the first, a match was made between the Spray and Alert, which was won by the latter. The amusements concluded by a Duck Hont, but the men were not seen by more than a dozen people; it may be considered the only failure of the day. We must not omit to mention that two new racing gigs were built for the occasion, respectively by Mr Trahey and Mr Lachapelle, boat-builders, who take the greatest interest in our Regattas, and spare nothing to make them successful. These boats were both defeated in their maiden races, but the design and workmanship of the Zealous and Amateur, it is said, would reflect credit on any country. To-day the official celebration takes place, and we shall indeed be happy if we have to record a similar harmony and success in the amusements still to be en-THE steamer Enterprise arrived from New Westminster on Saturday, morning bringing a few passengers and the Caribeo mail and treasure. The amount for the Banks is stated at $72,000, and some $25,000 more in private hands. The markets are reported to be very well supplied, and living PAUPERISM. - It is a very erroneous opinion to suppose, as is often done, that pauperism is larger in England than all other countries When we recollect the vact amount of population crowded into such narrow limits, and the over competition in life which neces sarily results therefrom, we may congratu late onreelves upon the present state of this sad evil. Any person familiar with Mas cauley's history of pauperism, two hundred years ago, will be struck with the subjoined figures. That there should only be 926,000 in-door paupers, out of a population of 28,-000,000, is not a bad shewing. The midsummer enumeration of paupers has just been published in England. It shows that there were 926,000 paupers, in round num bers, in receipt of relief on the 1st July last in all England and Wales, or 44,000 more than at the same time in 1866. This return we understand is a complete census, no class that receives support or aid from the poor rates being excluded from the statement. The in-door paupers were 134,000 and the out-door 792,000.

THE British Columbian, of Saturday, in a leader upon the Bute Inlet Wagon Road, revives a series of past grievances, and says the people of Victoria are actuated by fiendish motives in aiding Mr Waddington to cut off, if possible, the entire interests of the mainland from the mouth of the Fraser to Soda Creek. We doubt whether there are half a dozen men in this city, even amongst Mr Waddington's personal friends, who care two straws about his road, if less advantag cous to the general benefit of the Colony than any other route. The people of the interior there no feet that the it colfish and me scrupulous politicians " of Victoria, as the Columbian calls them, have the least desire or intention of injuring their interests.
